Our iPhone displays

We supply displays in 7 quality grades for iPhone OLED models and 5 grades for LCD models. What do they all have in common? And how are we different from other suppliers?

"Every mobileparts.shop iPhone display is tested by three different expert testers. This ensures that the displays we supply are free from dead pixels, lines or light patches. Additionally, we offer a lifetime warranty across all our quality grades. Did you know that we reject about 70% of refurbished stock? We're very picky when it comes to quality!"

Because we purchase large volumes of iPhone and iPad parts every month, we get better deals from assemblers and suppliers. How does this benefit you?

"We work with suppliers to which other companies do not have access."

"We can make specific agreements regarding display assembly, selecting the components ourselves to guarantee the best quality product."

"When we source pre-assembled stock, we're able to get ahead of other suppliers and select the best displays before anyone else. This means we can pick the cream of the crop!"
